I am an awarded environmentlalist and author/journalist who is very much against this new pipeline, the Cape Cod Canal Pipeline Expansion and any other gas pipelines on Cape Cod (or in the northeast). Fracking which provides some of the gas is extremely detrimental to the environment and to ciitizens. Gas prices are volatile and rate payers will likely have to pay higher prices. Increasing reliance on fossil fuels at this time is inadvisable when CO2 is rising dangerously already. The pipelines disrupt and destroy and contaminate delicate local ecosystems and cause noise and distress from construction and possible "frac-out." Methane which the pipelines may release is flammable which also can cause damage and explosions. This is a time for small decentralized sustainable green energy, such as solar, investment in new renewables, and not fossil fuels, not nuclear...and not this project.
